bridging ancient memories of standing stone mythologies rock tops rock and balances till shadows are not what they seem –

it is a world almost glimpsed between the intervals of breath – rock on rock – an almost boat – rock on rock – an almost man –

stone on stone – a family stone on stone – a majesty – a sculptured city almost known born out of the winds and waves –

some nameless artist in the now built these sculptures slow by slow as if the hands of god unmasked some tribute to a vanished race.
