

...october 7, 2008...
...pyramids...

what can you tell me about the success of the pyramids?
egyptian pyramids i mean – pharaoh mausoleums built to honour ra that sungod of dynasties who was all gods in one – at least that's what some histories describe –

*in answer to your question please define success and what you really mean by it – do you mean the teaching underpinning centuries of growth?
or do you mean some mystery that transcends time?
is it gods you seek or arcane strategies
of secret power?
truths remain the same
only players seem to change in this most extraordinary world –*

i'm trying to uncover what the pyramids were for – we've all heard of mummies and hieroglyphic walls yet it seems as if even the valley of the kings is a vast receptacle of learning that we can't figure out – and what better place than walls housing the dead
to hide esoteric knowledge that may have come from god or god's representatives or maybe aliens –

*interesting – gods or aliens – perhaps one and the same when teaching spiritual growth – and all this – in your terms – so very long ago –
who could have guessed the paths of teaching would be horded by the rich and reduced to maintain the powers of a dynasty –
i suppose you've read the correlation between pyramids and the magnetic poles has shifted – geography has changed but truths remain the same – now do you still insist that wisdom comes from outside in or from the inside out?*

you're answering in riddles – my question was quite plain – straightforward even – were pyramids successful?
were they magic forms translating geometric mysteries of healing and power?
and if we searched
between the mazes and the tunnels and the writings and the ruins could these ancient truths become our own?

*there you go again – you're really asking how that civilization grew in such magnificence
and knowledge that you seem to think your world has lost –
you don't want to hear the wisdoms of the soul – all you really want to know is if a giant triangle made three dimensional can accentuate
the metaphysical –*

that's it exactly!
three thousand years bc –
look how magically mummies survived those tombs and no one knows the recipe they used to stuff the bodies
pulling organs out and all that gruesome stuff –

*pardon the interruption but i suspect and hope
the recipe
isn't what you want?*

not at all – that's too gross – but you must admit movies have been made mixing curses into isis and orisis myths –
even the horus eye
and tarot cards
have come to us
as if bearing messages transcending time –

*tarot is the seekers path balancing the right and left weaving the mind with heart and soul on the spiritual quest – but you're getting closer to answering yourself – first ra and then orisis-isis did you know that both were teachers of the one?
and if the all comes out of one then one eye watches everything –* all very interesting i'm sure now back to pyramids –

i read somewhere that imhotep created the first stepping pyramid – architect and engineer physician and magician – out nowhere how did he gain such amazing erudition?
after him successors built the biggest and the most complex pyramids our world has known – they kind of fell off after that as if knowledge was somewhere lost – but how could they be built at all with muscle power and so few trees and such amazing accuracy?
again – look at that valley of the kings!

*this is almost too complex for what you term your sciences – you have the power so-to-speak in the very thoughts you think – as you think - so you create your vibrating world space while everyone vibrates inside their own self-created worlds – but when combined
the joining power of directed thought and sound merged to one vibrating tone can shift molecules of stone until monoliths are born –* now i think you're telling me that the pyramids we see were all created magically? that seems a little hard to believe – i think i'd rather understand that giant pyramids can store some kind of universal power – like a massive battery that holds and channels energies we don't know how to utilize – and maybe that's the reason why the pharaohs were all buried there – thinking cosmic energy could seed their immortality!

sometimes your thoughts are very close to an all-that-is approach – sometimes they are far apart – those of antiquity would think you are a science fiction dream while from your desktop point of view you call them the ancient dead – yet the questions you both ask absolutely overlap – who do you really think you are hidden in the names you use ?

and why are you really here exploring physicality ? perhaps the pyramids reflect the questions you are meant to ask and in asking them you find past and present realigned separate and yet one.