

A photograph of a room with a window, a decorative star hanging from the ceiling, and a painting on the wall. The room is empty, and the text is overlaid on a white rectangular background.

...january 28, 2014...

i bless the corners of this empty room with sprinkled salt and a memory of a future laughing ghost of me whispering directions in my ear - then i paint the room in quietness with light dimensions shifting into sun breathing myself into an audience of all the selves i shall someday become.

pamela swanson
www.poetpam.com