

...december 27, 2016...

seagulls – slipping on the ice that stretches shores to puddled sun – with never-ending skidded landings steadied by unfurled wings –

a frosted dance of frozen breath grown crystalline and magical expanded out of nothingness into this ever-shifting now.

©pamela swanson
www.poetpam.com