

...june 23, 2017...

insect dragons – crimson robed – stained glass wings – translucent red – startling the eye with fire they flicker – flash – then disappear –

then back again – a brilliant pause glowing atop a barren twig – the shimmer of mythologies chasing a vibrant blur of wings.

©pamela swanson
www.poetpam.com