

...march 10, 2020...

she asked the question once again to the shrouds of let's pretend – pretending that she liked to drink since drinking made her feel chic –

it made her feel crazy good – it made her feel sexy new – it made her feel as if her heart had never known injury –

it made her feel that she was strong – it made her feel that she was wise – it made her feel she could forget all those things she almost believed when she was lost in nights and days wondering if her heart was strong – still learning how to love herself – still learning – that she was enough.

©pamela swanson

www.poetpam.com